

CLIENT CASE WOLF SCHILDERWERKEN

A website as an online business card for a skilled professional

About the client

Wolf Schilderwerken is an experienced painting company based in Hattemerbroek, Netherlands. Owner Rick Wolf offers high-quality painting services for both interior and exterior projects, as well as spray painting, wall finishing and wallpapering. The company operates in the Zwolle, Dronten and Hattemerbroek region and is known for its craftsmanship and quality.

The challenge

Rick Wolf did not yet have a website and was looking for a professional online presence that would reflect the quality of his work. Potential clients could only reach him through word of mouth. He wanted to expand his reach and improve his visibility online.

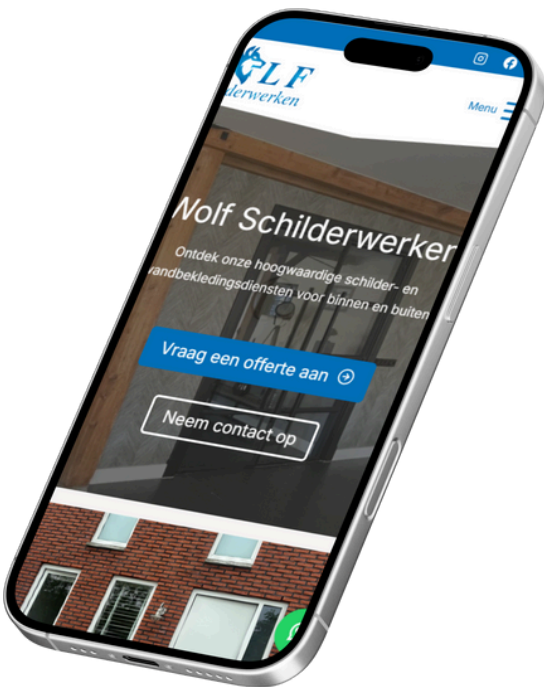

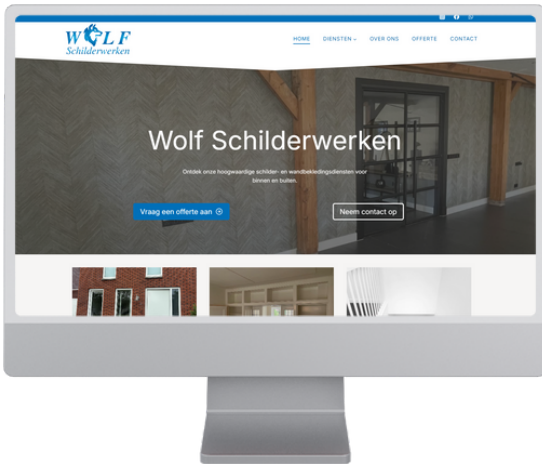

My approach

I developed a modern and clear website where his services are presented in a straightforward way. Each service was given its own page, including a short description and photos of completed projects. I also created a promotional banner for social media, focused on the winter season.

The website has been live since December 2024. It conveys professionalism, helps attract new customers and makes it easier to request a quote. Thanks to the website, Wolf Schilderwerken is now also well represented online in the local area.

What makes this collaboration special

I enjoy working with business owners who take pride in their craft. Rick had a clear idea of the image he wanted to present and gave me the trust and freedom to bring it all together.

That made the collaboration smooth and personal. Because I manage everything myself, from design to going live, I was able to support him quickly and without hassle.
